

Your cards, your horses and your entries — ready before your trainer asks.

Equine Entry keeps everything a show requires of you in one place: your USEF and AHA cards, Safe Sport, your horses' registration facts, and the classes your trainer has picked. Register once; every show after that is already done.

01 Register once — five things, only what the shows require

- About you (or your junior rider, if you are the parent or guardian).
- Your trainer — search by name, barn name or email and ask to join the barn. Your trainer accepts you from their side.
- USEF member card and AHA membership card — take a photo or upload the PDF. The card is read for you; a card for a different person is flagged as the wrong card.
- Horses you own — or tick "I don't own a horse". If AHA already lists horses in your name, they are offered to add with one click.

02 Your horses, with the facts already filled in

- Name, registration number, breed, sex, foaling date and color come from the horse database, matched to the official AHA record, so you never type them.
- A checklist per horse: AHA registration · Owner of record · Microchip · USEF horse recording · Coggins · Rhino — each marked Clear or Not ready, with a link to fix it (for example "File the transfer" when AHA still lists the previous owner).
- Nomination logos where they apply: Sweepstakes, Scottsdale Signature, AWWA, AHPA, Medallion.
- Pedigree with breeder, owner and microchip; who rides the horse; registration papers, USEF horse card, Coggins and Rhino records in one "Papers" fold.
- Add your own photo of the horse, or ask for a wrong one to be removed.

03 Shows, classes and calendar

- Every AHA regional plus Scottsdale: dates, the day entries close, class fee, show-office contact, show website and prize list. Host hotel with map and directions, and a map of places to stay nearby.
- Classes: the classes your trainer picked for you, with fees, each marked Clear or Not ready — you see exactly what is holding an entry up.
- Calendar: entry closings, and the day, time and ring for each class once your trainer sets them.

04 Your documents stay yours

- Who opened your documents — every time a trainer, show office or administrator opens one of your cards or certificates, it is logged and you can see it.
- Sign out on all other devices with one click; change your password and other devices are signed out automatically.
- Delete my account at any time, which removes your files too. Cards and certificates are deleted automatically after two years in any case.
- Family members who ride can be kept under one account, with the right rules for juniors (Safe Sport training is not required under 18).
- Your data is never sold or used for advertising.

05 The Arabian horse database — included

760,000+

Arabians, Half-Arabians and Anglo-Arabians

2.0 million

show-result lines, read class by class

3 generations

family tree on every horse page, plus foals

- Search any horse by name or registration number; see registration facts, family tree, foals, owners past and present, breeder, and show results show by show with place, score, class size and points.
- Hall of Champions — sires, dams, grandsires, breeders and owners ranked by champions at Nationals, Regionals and Scottsdale; filter by division, open/amateur/junior and years.
- Hall of Fame Riders — riders ranked by AHA points, with a "Show the work" button that recomputes any line from the raw results in front of you.
- Each night's count is followed by an independent re-check of 200 lines, and the result of that check is printed on the page.

Getting started takes about ten minutes

1. Go to equineentry.com → Sign up → Rider / owner. You will need your USEF member number.
2. Work through the five registration steps. Cards can be photographed with your phone.
3. Ask to join your trainer's barn (or use the invite link your trainer sends you).
4. Once your trainer accepts, your horses, readiness checklist and classes appear — and you are done until something expires.

Riders don't fill in entry forms on Equine Entry. Your trainer picks classes and submits; you see the result and what, if anything, is still needed from you.
